A Beaver's Tale

At dusk today I removed a cat from a tree. Forced to use the tree as a means of escape from two fun-loving dogs, the poor feline soon found himself in a situation perhaps more basardous. Previously he had several routes of escape. A fast retreat under the house, or even a jump to the top of a fence would have left the cat with what he lacks in his perch on the tree limb. He now needs not an escape, but a path back to reality, back to the good, solid ground.

Like the cat, we all get curselves up a few trees. We continuously allow ourselves to be backed into corners and crowled to such a point that we take the worst possible means of escape. The means that we think would get us so high above our situation often provide an escape with no escape. Then we must rely on someone to help, as the cat depended upon me.

Our routes may be "speed," "marijuana," "grass," liquor, anger, hate, jealousy or belligerance. Once we have embarked upon a route, we need a way to return.

Now we seek an answer. Now we ask for a solution. We beg for help. The weak need the strong. The strong need the stronger. The cat needed a helping hand to get out of his tree. What the rest of us needs is within our reach. Ho matter how trivial another's problems may be, your helping hand may prevent his becoming more deeply involved in something. Try a little kindness every day. It goes a long way.

Life in these United States READER'S DIGEST

One Fall, my husband and 1 vacationed at a fishing camp on a remote lake in northern Maine. True to type, our host was terse of speech and every inch a Yankee. On the day we left to return to civilization, he was making out our bill at an old-rolltop desk. "Lessee," he said, "two weeks at $50 a week---" "Hey" my hurband said, "you're cheating yourself. The brochure

"Wal," replied our host, "we do say $55 in the littachoor -- but if people get here and they ain't too damned unpleasant, we only charge 'em $50."

DENTAL CARE

Q: What is the primary contributing factor to tooth loss and infections of the oral cavity? A: Poor oral hygiene practices.....

Many people do not realize the importance of brushing their teeth regularly and that there is a prescribed technique to be used to reach the desired effect. The Dental Service here in the hospital strives to meet the needs of each patient and staff member. Every six months, each member of the hospital staff is contacted and given an appointment to have his teeth cleaned and to receive a stannous flouride treatment.

Along with the cleaning and prophylaxis treatment, each person will also receive indoctrination in the proper use of the toothbrush.

Dental Division, BUMED directives require this treatment for everyone on active duty for a period of time exceeding thirty days.

HOSPITAL MSC OFFICER

WEDS FORMER NURSE

The Naval Hospital Staff wishes to express sincere congratulations to LT and Mrs. Orlin E. CUNNINGHAM who were married on 27 Jan 1970.

Mrs. CUNNINGHAM is the former Kathleen T. MC NAMARA who served as a staff member of the hospital prior to her release to inactive duty. LT CUNNINGHAM is Chief, Patient Affairs Division and his wife is employed at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis.

The twentieth annual circus performance, jointly sponsored by the Al Chymia Shrine and the Commercial Appeal, was held at Naval Hospital Memphis on Tuesday, 3 February. There were five separate acts including tight wire antics, varied jugglers, breath holding balancing tricks with Chimpanzees, colorfully dressed poodles that performed every trick known to their species, and unicyclists. There were also the unfortettable clowns who brought laughter and cheerfulness to the hearts of many.

CAPT BARNWELL and CDR BERGQUIST were introduced by the ring master of the circus after which he called upon the talented circus participants to present their acts.

The program was given for the benefit of the hospital patients, bedfast and otherwise, who do not have the opportunities to get out and enjoy themselves as many of us do.

The Shrine organization began in the early 1800's from a group of sincere and fun-loving folks who decided to share themselves with those less fortunate. As the group grew, so did their ideas and aims. A project was started toward the entertainment of crippled children. Funds increased with growing membership, and eventually, hospitals for crippled children were developed. Today, there are over a dozen such hospitals throughout the nation. In addition to this, three burn institutes have been founded.

In Memphis, there are over 6,000 members of the Shrine whose principal project is a school for handicapped children. Most of the students are victims of polio or cerebral palsy. Each year, the members of Al Chymia provide a visit to the circus for such crippled and underprivileged children.

The following officers of Al Chymia Temple were present at the hospital: Potentate Rufus W. CRAVEN, Chief Rabban Jack V. STOVALL, High Priest and Prophet Virgil WILDER, Oriental Guide Jack CHILDRESS, and Treasurer W. Hoytt AUSTIN.

HOSPITAL HEROICS

The Naval Hospital Basketball Team started its intramural season with a big bang. Up to this date, the Hospital Team has won 6 and lost 0. This has been contributed to by the outstanding shooting of SN COHEN, LTJG BOHN and HN FAIR and the good defense work of LT YOUNG and SN CANNON. Scores of the games are:

HUBAL

Sweethearts of every age celebrate Valentine's Day with fond affection.

The Valentine sweetheart sometimes hopes to be and frequently becomes the June bride. This perfectly natural sequence of events sometimes alarms and almost always puzzles the young men who are involved.

The service of marriage for many churches indicates that marriage is an honorable estate, instituted of God and signifying unto us the mystical union which exists between Christ and His church, which holy estate Christ adorned and beautified with His presence in Cana of Galilee. It is, therefore, not to be entered into unadvisedly, but reverently, discreetly, and in the fear of God.

Chaplains and ministers traditionally have considered it a great privilege to counsel young men and women in preparation for the mature decisions and obligations involved.

Servicemen and women frequently are making plans for marriage when the man and woman are separated by long distances and sometimes both are unable to receive any form of counsel or guidance from family, friends, home pastor, or family physician. Even when such counsel is available, it is limited by a lack of understanding of the impact of military service.

Chaplains have tried to fill this gap by lectures, films, marriage prep talks, pre-cana conferences, books, folders and pastoral counselling.

At the Naval Hospital Memphis there are several folders available as well as counsel by the Chaplain. In addition, there are special programs presented by the Naval Air Station Chapels Assistance in these matters is available whether the marriage is to take place here, your home church, or at another location. Folders available in the Chaplain's Office are:

"Planning Marriage" "Tennessee Marriage Law" "Now That You Are Married" "For Catholics Considering Marriage"

OKINAWA: A TIGER BY THE TAIL by M. Morris: The presence of Americans works worrisone wonders. In the case of Okinawa, a retiring, non-aggressive people accustomed to being pawns in the struggles of the mighty have developed a strong sense of identity and purpose and a desire to achieve them, which places both the U.S. and Japar. in a troublesome situation. The land, the people, the past, and the problems of Okinawa are described along with the approaches which might be taken to resolve the question of what is to happen to Okinawa and to the U.S. bases there.
